

The facts speak for themselves. If insurers aren't required to cover mental illness, vision or hearing, health reform will fail millions of our children. Real child health-care reform means affordable and easily accessible coverage of all medically necessary services for all children from head to toe, regardless of where they live. Anything less just doesn't add up. www.childrensdefense.org

