Children in Foster Care

Numbers – September 2007

- 10,716 children in out-of-home placements under supervision of New York Office of Children and Family Services.
- Of these children, 1,898 were in kinship foster care, with another 593 in “child specific” placements (with friends or other caregivers who have had a relationship with a child before placement)

Preferences

- State law requires that kin be considered first when an out-of-home placement is sought for a child under the care of the state.
- No separate licensing program for kinship foster parents. Kin have to meet the same licensing standards and receive the same foster care payment rate as non-kin foster parents.

Subsidized guardianship

- New York does not have any subsidized guardianship programs.

State Laws

The following state laws may be helpful to grandparents and other relatives raising children.¹

Medical Consent to Immunizations and Emergency Medical Care

N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2504

- Enables grandparents, adult aunt or uncle, adult brother or sister, or non-relatives acting in a parental relationship to consent to the immunization of a child.

Standby Guardianship

N.Y. Surr. Ct. Proc. Act § 1726

- Allows a progressively, chronically, or irreversibly ill parent, legal guardian or legal custodian to designate an alternate or “standby guardian” of a child.

Permanent Guardianship Status

NY A 1514

- Provides for permanent guardianship status for suitable relatives of children who have been placed in a relative’s care when parental rights of the children are terminated or the children are otherwise freed for adoption.

Grandparent Rights Act

S. 224-A and A.8302-B

- Defines how long a grandchild must reside with a grandparent before a grandparent is able to seek legal custody. If a child has resided for two or more years in a grandparent's home, judges must decide legal custody based on the best interests of the child.
- Requires social service departments to find all grandparents and inform them of their options when child protective services removes a child from his or her parents' home. Once located, these grandparents and any other known relatives must be told that: (1) they may qualify as foster parents; (2) they may become legal custodians or guardianship independent of the foster care system; and (3) their failure to intervene may ultimately result in adoption by an unrelated foster family.

Search for Kin

Chapter 671 of the Laws of 2005

- Requires social services personnel to conduct an expansive search for a child's relatives and to notify them of the opportunity to serve as foster parents.

¹Laws change and are subject to different interpretations. These general descriptions are not intended as legal advice in any particular situation.
